Congratulations to Brunswick High School English teacher, Kristin Perrin! Today, William Koran, the Superintendent of the Medina County Educational Service Center (ESC), presented Mrs. Perrin with the “Homer B. Smith Teacher of Excellence Award”! This award has been given to the “top teacher in Medina County” since 1984. Mrs. Perrin is the second Brunswick City Schools teacher to earn this recognition!

Some of the innovative ideas Mrs. Perrin has implemented in her classroom include creating an environment of conferences and workshops so that students can collaborate over themes. She gives her students a choice regarding which works to analyze (novels, plays, poems, artwork, etc.). This helps them better understand the theme at hand. For their midterm, instead of sitting down and taking a test, her students presented reflections on their work during the first semester. Students shared their understanding of the literature and their own writing to a panel (including the Superintendent, central office administrators, principals, and teachers). Mr. Geschke, Brunswick City Schools Director of Educational Programs and Innovation, nominated Mrs. Perrin for this award.
